

Roberts' Room News

for the week of

March 18, 2014

Dear Parents,

This is such an exciting week for first graders! We will be putting the finishing touches on our presentation this week. We look forward to seeing you Friday morning at 9:00 a.m. in the multipurpose room for our character education assembly.

Thank you so much to all who sent in items for our green tasting. We had an enjoyable time trying different foods and making a graph of our favorites. We even had a leprechaun pop into our classroom while we were at our special. It was a festive day.

Prior to spring break, I would like to have a spring egg hunt. If you are willing, please send in 21 plastic eggs filled with goodies (spring erasers, stickers, etc.) by Monday, March 25. We will have the hunt immediately after lunch Tues. March 26. We have an earlier date due to scheduling all of the primary grades to hunt. We also have time to reschedule in the event of rain. Thank you in advance for your help with this.

In Open Court's Imagine It program, we are working in the unit North, South, East, and West. We are talking about maps and globes. We are working with other first grade classes to research and report on a continent. Our class will be researching Europe. Each of the participating classes will display what they have learned in the hallways so that we may learn about other continents that classes have researched.

We will not have spelling homework or a test prior to spring break. If your child would like to complete independent research at home to add to our study and display of Europe, he/she will receive extra credit.

Specials for the week will be:

Mon. P.E. Tues. Art Wed. Media Thurs. P.E. Fri. Technology

In mathematics, we will continue with our unit about measurement. We have been using different units to measure the same distances.

We would greatly appreciate your donations of plastic nametag holders (no clips are needed) and baby wipes.

Have a terrific week!

Sincerely,
Mary Presson Roberts
